

THE CLIENT JOURNEY

Stage 1: Discovery A prospect lands on the coach's website, typically arriving from a podcast appearance, speaking engagement, or referral. The homepage immediately establishes premium positioning with a cinematic hero section, the coach's transformation story, and a prominent CTA to take the Executive Readiness Assessment.

Stage 2: Assessment The prospect clicks through to a Typeform-powered assessment (15 questions, 5-7 minutes). The assessment serves three purposes: it qualifies the lead based on their situation and budget capacity, gathers intel the coach can use in the discovery call, and creates a personalized experience that demonstrates value before any sales conversation. Questions are grouped into Qualification (1-5), Readiness (6-12), and Engagement Intent (13-15).

Stage 3: Report Delivery Upon completion, the prospect immediately receives a personalized PDF report showing their Executive Readiness Score across three dimensions: Professional, Personal, and Relational. This is generated automatically via Zapier + PDF.co and delivered to their inbox. The thank-you page teases the report and prompts them to watch the VSL.

Stage 4: Stage 5: Nurture Sequence Whether they book immediately or not, a 7-email sequence unfolds over 7 days. Each email builds on their assessment results, shares relevant insights, and includes clear CTAs to book. SMS touchpoints supplement email for higher engagement.

Stage 5: Discovery Call Booking When ready, the prospect books a discovery call through GoHighLevel's built-in scheduler. They receive confirmation, reminders, and a brief prep questionnaire so the coach arrives informed.

Stage 6: Discovery Call the coach conducts the call via Zoom, using their assessment data and questionnaire responses to have a highly personalized conversation.

Stage 7: Enrollment If it's a fit, the prospect receives a Stripe payment link. Upon payment, DocuSign automatically sends the coaching agreement. Once signed, the onboarding sequence triggers.

Video Sales Letter The client is directed to a thank you page with a Video Sales Letter where the coach speaks directly to their situation, explains his methodology, and invites qualified individuals to book a discovery call. Wistia's turnstile feature can capture email at key moments, and engagement analytics show exactly how much they watched.

Secondary Offer Coach can have a secondary offer - a retreat, conference, online community - queued up as an add on.

Stage 8: Onboarding The new client receives a welcome email sequence with logistics, calendar links for their weekly sessions, and preparation materials for their first coaching call.

Stage 9: Engagement Six months of weekly 1:1 coaching via Zoom. Each session is recorded and transcribed automatically. Clients can also submit journal entries and notes between sessions through a client portal. All of this feeds into the AI-powered client intelligence system.

Stage 10: Renewal At month 5, an automated renewal sequence triggers. the coach enters the renewal conversation armed with AI-generated insights summarizing the client's entire journey, breakthroughs, recurring themes, and transformation arc.

THE COACH DASHBOARD (What the coachSees)

CRM Overview: All leads in one place with contact history, assessment scores, and engagement data.

Pipeline View: Kanban-style board showing leads moving through stages: New Lead → Assessment Complete → Call Booked → Call Complete → Proposal Sent → Enrolled → VSL Watched → Active Client.

Client Intelligence Hub: This is where the magic happens. For each active client, the coach has access to:

- Session Transcripts: Every Zoom call automatically transcribed and stored chronologically
- Client Journals: Notes and reflections the client submits between sessions
- the coach's Session Notes: His own observations and action items from each call
- AI-Powered Insights: The system analyzes all inputs and surfaces:
 - Recurring themes and patterns across sessions
 - Emotional trajectory and breakthrough moments
 - Commitments made vs. followed through
 - Key quotes that capture transformation
 - Suggested areas to explore in the next session
 - Progress against goals established in session one

Pre-Call Briefing: Before each session, the coach can pull up an AI-generated summary of where the client is in their journey, what they committed to last week, what themes are emerging, and suggested coaching angles - all synthesized from months of notes, transcripts, and journals.

Automation Monitor: Visual workflows showing which sequences are active, where prospects are in their journey, and any manual touchpoints needed.

Calendar Integration: Upcoming discovery calls and coaching sessions synced across all devices.

Analytics Dashboard: Conversion metrics at each stage, email open/click rates, and VSL engagement data.

This AI integration transforms the coach's capacity without sacrificing depth. A typical coach might take 5-10 clients before they start losing track of details. With this system, the coach can maintain the intimacy and personalization of a boutique practice while the system handles the cognitive load of remembering every breakthrough, every pattern, every commitment across his entire client roster.

For the client, it feels like the coach has a photographic memory. He references something they said in month two during a conversation in month five. He notices patterns they can't see themselves. He never asks them to repeat the context. That's the ultra-premium experience that justifies the investment.
